

Dear Families,

October 9, 2023

Here's what's happening this week:

MATH: Data and Graphs

READING: Non-Fiction Mentor Texts

WRITING: Non-Fiction Expertise

PHONICS/WORD WORK: Letter Formation, Short Vowel Review

SOCIAL/EMOTIONAL STUDIES: Fire Safety Week

SPECIALISTS: S, PA, M, PE, S

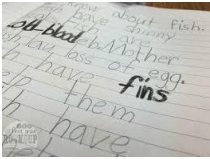

It's National Fire Safety Week! In social studies we'll cover fire prevention and sketch out two ways to exit each room safely. At home, we recommend talking with your children about fire safety where you live. Fire can be frightening for children and having a predictable plan helps them feel easier.

We're also continuing our Expert Books by creating chapter headings, a table of contents, and even how to gather photographs to use in publishing.

Last week's math, counting equal groups, was a successful unit, so we're ready to move on to interpreting data in the forms of charts and graphs.

Our first field trip is on Friday, to see Step Afrika! at Northrop Auditorium, sponsored by the Ordway Theater, who is paying for our buses. "Step Afrika! is a dance company dedicated to the African-American tradition of "stepping". It is a non-profit organization that ... uses "stepping" as an educational tool. Their dance style is a fusion of South African gumbboot dance and African American stepping." - Wikipedia <https://www.stepafrika.org/>

Please send back signed permission slip, return school iPad chargers, send tennis shoes for Phy.Ed., check Home folders each day, and read 20 minutes each night.

All the best from Team Two!
